

Environment and Sustainability Committee

Inquiry into Energy Policy and Planning in Wales

EPP 196 – Mike Cockayne

Dear Sirs,

This beautiful country of ours is already crisscrossed with pylons of various shapes and sizes and at times it looks as if the engineers are just looking for some other part of the country to contaminate with structures deemed to be essential for some scheme or other.

I can only speak for what I know and attach an indication of the likely effects of their proposals on "my patch". It has to stop somewhere doesn't it?

Mike Cokayne,